

Second Crash Fatal to Highland Resident Probe Begins of Plane Crash Taking 45 Lives

Hungarians Seize Red Aircraft, Seek Asylum

Wild Fight Marks Dash for Freedom

Ingolstadt, Germany, July 14 (AP)—Eight Hungarians sought asylum in West Germany today after seizing a Hungarian airliner in a wild fight with its crew and crash landing at a U. S. Air Force field here.

One passenger joined the seven anti-Communist plotters in asking for refuge when the group landed here last night and turned themselves over to West German police.

THE DARING BREAK—planned far in advance—was perhaps the most spectacular dash for freedom in a long series of escapes from Iron Curtain lands.

Twelve passengers and crewmen were battered and bloody after the desperate fight high over Hungary for control of the two-engined plane.

Some were injured when the pilot tried to thwart the plotters by putting the ship into a series of bone-bruising loops. Others were wounded by blows from iron rods the anti-Reds used in their dramatic bid for freedom.

THE BREAK was directed by a Hungarian World War II pilot. The veteran, identified by his comrades only as "the lieutenant," was the only plotters who had a gun. The others carried iron rods.

Fifteen passengers, including a Communist secret police agent and four crewmen were involved in the wild struggle.

After the rebels had taken over, the lieutenant seized the airline's controls and brought the plane to a crash landing at a U. S. airfield near Ingolstadt.

THE FIRST of the plotters to emerge from the plane, his face bloody, shouted "Bonn! Adenauer! Germany!"

Before German police managed to take command, several brief battles broke out between the anti-Reds and those who wanted to go back to Hungary.

The seven plotters and another passenger asked West German authorities for political asylum. The four crewmen and seven other passengers said they wanted to go back to their Communist homeland.

POLICE said the plane, an American-built DC3 of the state-owned Melay Airlines, will be returned to Hungarian authorities after a check to see whether it is safe to fly.

The plane had been en route from Budapest to the provincial city of Szombathely, southwest of the capital.

Details of the escape were given last night by one of the seven plotters—Joseph Jakab, 25, a Budapest student.

Jakab said the coup had been planned long in advance and

Newspaper Guild Picks Coast For '58 Anniversary Session

Toronto, July 14 (AP)—The American Newspaper Guild Friday selected San Jose, Calif., as the site of its 25th anniversary convention in 1958.

The invitation, extended by Frank Bonanno, president of the San Jose Local, was accepted unanimously after an earlier invitation from Cleveland, where the Guild was founded in 1933, was withdrawn. Convention dates will be set by the Guild's executive.

The 1957 convention will be held in St. Louis.

Selection of the convention site ended this year's five-day convention.

Only other business at the final session was adoption of the organizing committee's report, reaffirming the Guild's program of organizing.

The report said that in this era of merger of labor forces in the United States and in Canada "it is to be expected that the greatest current potential (for new members) arises from the united house of labor."

An estimated 3,000 newspaper people in our jurisdiction are now organized in federally chartered locals of the United States and in Canadian CLC-affiliated groups. The ANG is the natural instrument through which they

Two-Way Uptown Traffic Proves Less Satisfactory

The change in the city's uptown traffic system operated under Friday night shopping conditions for the first time Friday night and officials said they believed it was not as satisfactory as the original one-way pattern.

Two-way traffic on North Front street from Washington avenue to Crown street became effective last Sunday morning.

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, who checked the new system for several hours, said that possibly weather conditions "held the traffic down," but from observation he did not feel the two-way system was as effective as the one-way plan on North Front street.

Mayor Frederick H. Stang said he checked traffic conditions at about 7:45 p. m. "It was not too bad but not, in my opinion, as good as the original one-way," the mayor said.

He also mentioned weather as a possible factor in traffic reduction but noted "a backup" on Wall street and Clinton avenue.

The rest of the uptown one-way traffic system will remain as before, with traffic one-way westward over Clinton avenue and on North Front street as far as Crown street, and on all other streets in the system as previously designated.

President Given Briefing on Far Eastern Visit

Gettysburg, Pa., July 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower talked Far Eastern policy today with Vice President Nixon, who flew up from Washington to report on his 11-day trip around the world.

While Nixon said this was the primary purpose of his visit at the Eisenhower farm, he was willing and ready to talk politics and campaign plans if the president wanted to. And, he said, he expected to discuss business still pending in Congress as the legislative session draws to a close.

ARRIVING WITH the vice president for the legislative part of the consultations was Eisenhower's chief liaison man with Congress, Wilton B. Persons.

Persons and Nixon landed at the Gettysburg airport at 9:58 a. m. (EDT) and were driven to the Eisenhower's country estate

Service Clubs Told Needs Assuring Good Chest Drive

The need for widespread cooperation in making this year's Community Chest campaign a success was stressed by Paul F. Steinkuller, general chairman, at a meeting of directors of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs at the Governor Clinton Hotel Friday.

A general discussion was held on various proposals for participation by the civic groups represented. The suggestions will be taken back to the regular board meetings of the organizations for development into a final plan of action.

In attendance were: From the Junior Chamber of Commerce—Chester Diffley, president; Robert MacKinnon, William Biebert, Seymour Werba-lowsky, Donald Droulette, John Doyle, Peter Kovalenko and Marvin Millens.

From the Rotary Club—Ray Elmendorf, immediate past president; L. V. Bogert, William E. Rylance and Edward K. Lefren.

From the Kiwanis Club—H. Van Wyck Darrow, vice president; George Mustaparta.

From the Lions Club—Warren Smith, president; William R. Stall and Donald Briggs.

Community Chest officials present, in addition to Mr. Steinkuller, were N. Jansen Fowler, president; Robert Nadler, campaign vice-chairman, and John R. Warren, executive director.

Craft Was En Route Overseas 21 Others Hurt In Jersey Mishap

Ft. Dix, N. J., July 14 (AP)—A cordon of military police today stood guard around the swampy area where a military transport plane crashed with the loss of 45 lives as air force investigators probed through the scattered wreckage.

The aircraft disappeared into the rain after takeoff yesterday and immediately plunged into a section of pines, brush and knee-deep water on this huge army reservation.

TWO WOMEN and two children were among the dead. Twenty-one persons were injured, some critically.

The giant C-118A left adjacent McGuire Air Force Base about 4 p. m. (EDT) with a 10-man crew, 50 military passengers and six civilians bound for foreign posts. It was headed for Burtonwood, England.

One survivor, an airman, said the plane after clearing the runway hit "an airpocket," a down current which frequently occurs in thunderstorms and causes planes to drop suddenly. The air force declined comment on his report.

THE FOUR-ENGINE craft plunged into the swamp at the southwest corner of this infantry training center, cutting a 300-yard long swath through the pine trees, some of them 100 feet high. The spot is about three miles from the McGuire runway.

Wreckage was scattered for half a mile.

The wings and three motors broke off as the plane tore through the trees. Col. John Williams, commander of the 161st air transport group, said the gas tanks in the wings thus were separated from the fuselage, preventing any fire.

A SPECIAL air force board started an investigation last night into the cause of the crash.

The rain was part of freakish weather conditions in the general area during the afternoon. Only a few minutes before the takeoff a thunderstorm had

Bitter Fight Looms On Aid Spending

Washington, July 14 (AP)—A bitter fight on the Senate floor began shaping up today on the heels of Senate Appropriations Committee approval of $4,105,420,000 in new money to finance foreign aid spending this year.

By a 13-8 vote, the committee yesterday recommended $680,300,000 more than the House allowed and only $9,655,000 less than the maximum fixed earlier in an authorization bill passed by both houses. Counting reappropriation of funds previously voted but unspent, the money bill's total was $4,346,220,000. The Eisenhower administration originally had asked about five billions.

But Sen. Thye (R-Minn.), an administration supporter, told a reporter "we are going to have a hard and bitter fight on the Senate floor next week to prevent drastic cuts."

"And we'll face another fight on an amendment to shut off all aid to Yugoslavia immediately," he said.

Grade Crossing Deaths Up Again

Washington, July 14 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) said today that rail-highway grade crossing accidents, after dropping in 1954, bounded back in 1955 to a total of 3,846—the highest in several years.

In comparison with 1954, when such accidents were fewer than in any year since 1946, last year's tally marked an increase of 15.3 per cent.

The resulting deaths in 1955 totaled 1,446, up 11 per cent. There were 4,014 injuries, an increase of 17.2 per cent.

The commission survey showed that 1955 crossing accidents occurred most frequently on Saturdays, in December, and between the hours of 6 and 7 p. m.

Peaceful Uses of Atom Materials Are Proposed

Washington, July 14 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration is reported to be working on a new disarmament proposal under which some materials now in atomic bombs would be converted to peaceful uses.

The proposal would be designed to get Russia to join with the western atomic powers in a system of orderly withdrawal of nuclear materials from its weapons arsenals and their diversion to peaceful purposes.

It was learned today that some discussion of this idea may be a principal point of President Eisenhower's next letter to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin on the subject of disarmament.

The detailed proposal, if the National Security Council finally agrees on it as firm United States policy, may also be proposed during the next round of negotiations in the United Nations disarmament subcommittee.

Harold E. Stassen, Eisenhower's disarmament adviser, told a news conference yesterday that "we are considering what further initiatives the United States might take to improve the prospects for peace with special reference to modern arms and conventional armaments in the world today."

He talked with newsmen a day after he had conferred with Eisenhower at Gettysburg, Pa.

Eisenhower told Bulganin in a letter last spring that he thought it extremely important that the great powers should take measures to bring the nuclear threat "under control."

In the absence of any inspection system adequate to detect

800,000 Manpower Cut For Military Denied

Washington, July 14 (AP)—Military manpower cuts that may start next year are under study, but Pentagon leaders say it may be several months before they know how deep the cuts will go.

This became known today after Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, formally denied any decision to effect an 800,000-man cut by 1960. Such a cut would leave about two million men under arms.

The New York Times reported yesterday that the chiefs of staff of the army, navy and air force, who with Radford make up the joint chiefs, are in "revolt" over a reported proposal by Radford for such a cut.

Denying he had reached any decision, Radford said in a statement that "the individual who attributes certain definite views to the chairman is anticipating conclusions which the chairman himself has not reached."

But he said also that "it is possible that manpower requirements for the future security of the United States can ultimately be lower because of the introduction of new weapons."

Other factors also enter into this new look at military manpower needs as the military leaders seek to plan for the years ahead.

One is the possibility, however imminent or remote, of an international agreement to limit the size of regular military forces. Another is the sharply increasing cost of the new weapons of the atomic-missile age, as well as their increased efficiency. A third is the possibility that West Germany may create an effective armed force sooner than now seems likely.

On Thursday, the Soviet delegate at the United Nations agreed to western proposals for ceilings on armed forces that would limit the United States, the Soviet Union and Communist China to 2½ million men each. The Russian agreement on this point was so hedged about with counter proposals and complex provisions that it carries

Police to Check Drain Basins for Clues on Child

Westbury, N. Y., July 14 (AP)—The hunt for the kidnaper of little Peter Weinberger continued today.

Police officials made plans to drain rainwater impounding basins in this Long Island community where the child was snatched 10 days ago.

THEY FELT a drain basin might conceal the body of the 6-week-old baby, or perhaps yield some clue.

The FBI, following long tradition, gave no information on its activities. The FBI has been in the case officially for three days.

Nassau county Chief of Detectives Stuyvesant Pinnell, who handled the early stages of the investigation, changed his policy to one of silence to conform with the FBI's practice.

"WE ARE ENGAGED in police work," was all he would say to newsmen who asked him about developments yesterday.

David Holman, uncle of the mother, Mrs. Morris Weinberger, said "the parents are willing to supervision of his father, Morris. The police and FBI are running down all possible leads developing from their joint scrutiny of the ransom note left by the kidnaper of Peter. (NEA Tele-photo)

Next Hearing Set In Binghamton

At Friday's hearing in Poughkeepsie on a proposed extension of the New York Milk Marketing Order to upstate areas, a Kingston woman spoke in opposition, and two Stone Ridge dairy farmers said they were in favor of extending the price fixing order.

Federal Examiner G. Osmond Hyde of the U. S. Agricultural Department, at the conclusion of yesterday's session, set new hearings for Tuesday at the Hotel Arlington, Binghamton.

TODAY AN announcement from Dr. C. J. Blanford, market administrator of the New York metropolitan milk marketing area, said production and consumption of milk is making records, but noted there were 2,126 fewer dairymen supplying the New York marketing pool for the month of June.

A uniform price of $3.52 per hundredweight (46½ quarts) for June deliveries to 395 approved plants was noted. The May price was $3.55 and in June a year ago it was $3.47.

Mrs. Charles A. Ball of 59 St. James street, this city, said at yesterday's hearing her under-

Steelmen Are Told Strike Loss Small

Pittsburgh, July 14 (AP)—The national steel strike will mean "little or no net loss" in work, David J. McDonald has told the 650,000 members of the United Steelworkers.

The union received this word from its president as contract talks recessed late yesterday. There was no apparent progress in bargaining for a settlement.

The government-sponsored negotiations are to resume Monday.

In the July issue of the union newspaper, "Steel Labor," McDonald says warehouses are "bulging with steel" and addresses these words to strikers' wives:

"This shutdown means that your husband is out of work now instead of working short weeks or being unemployed altogether in the next few months. When your husband starts working again the industry will make up production by raising the rate of output, by overtime, etc. There will be little or no net loss in the total work for your husband."

52 Persons Killed in Three Separate Air Crashes Friday

(By The Associated Press) At least 52 servicemen and civilians died in three separate plane crashes yesterday and last night.

Forty-five persons were killed and 21 injured yesterday when a huge military air transport plane plunged into a pine-wooded swamp near Ft. Dix, N. J.

The four-engine C118 had just taken off from McGuire Air Force Base with 66 servicemen and civilians bound for Europe. Two women and two children were among those who lost their lives.

Four men aboard a B-47 jet bomber were killed last night when the plane crashed and exploded as it took off from the Smoky Hill Air Force Base at Salina, Kan.

At Petoskey, Mich., two men and a woman were killed when their private plane crashed in a field six miles southeast of town. The three were believed to be from Illinois.

In Germany, seven anti-Communists aboard a Hungarian airliner captured the plane in flight and crash-landed at a U. S. Air Force field near Ingolstadt. Twelve persons, including Communist crewmen, were reported injured.

George Predicts Approval Of 10 Appointments to UN

Washington, July 14 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) forecast today Senate approval for President Eisenhower's appointments of United Nations delegates despite opposition by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) to the nomination of Paul G. Hoffman.

George said the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will decide Tuesday whether to hold any hearings on Hoffman. The latter's appointment appeared likely to be the only one challenged in the list of five delegates and five alternates sent to the Senate yesterday by Eisenhower.

McCarthy, who told the Senate earlier in the week Hoffman has been making statements which "could only be made by a fool or a Communist," said he plans to ask an opportunity to testify against the nominee.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N. J.), a committee member, said in a separate interview, he is supporting Hoffman but believes there ought to be public hearings.

Hoffman is chairman of the board of the Studebaker-Packard Corp., and once headed the Economic Cooperation Administration which administered foreign aid. Four years ago he was chairman of the Citizens for Eisenhower.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.), one of those named as a delegate to the UN General Assembly

Your Life And Mine

By CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

THE CAPE'S CONTRIBUTION

I am writing these lines sitting in a beach chair on the ocean side of Cape Cod—about seven miles below Provincetown. The roar of the waves is in my ears. Folks in vacation mood, many stretched out on the sand, are all about me. Gentle sea breezes make a light jacket almost a necessity on this cool Fourth of July. Lifting my eyes I can see several ships on the distant horizon as I look out toward the endless expanse of water out of which, centuries ago, the Mayflower emerged.

Spots like this do something immeasurably important for us. They remind us of the courage and the faith that went into the founding of our land. For it was here on this beach that the Mayflower first landed, and lingered for a while, before those "sturdy dreamers" took to the sea again to land ultimately at Plymouth. Places like this establish our heritage, again, with all our priceless privileges, in its costly perspective.

This is also a grand spot in which to recover energies and regain a sense of well-being. Out here the hard problems of the rough and tumble of the work-day world seem remote. The life is leisurely—at least for the vacationers. There is no enslaving schedule, no burdening pressure of duty, no call to work at the break of day. One can do things on the spur of the moment without having to wait for some other time in order to follow the lure of a dreamed-up idea or pursue some venture of pure enjoyment. The sea, the salt air, and the beach chair team up to restore a man's energies and revive his spirit.

It is wonderful how, in lovely places like this, the problems one faces and the year-round responsibilities one carries are shaken down to their proper size. It is a well-recognized fact that when energies become depleted, the size of problems and responsibilities mounts. When we have an abundance of physical and mental energy for the doing of our daily tasks, we "take them in stride," as we say. But when our supply of energy is low, either from eleven and one-half months of the daily grind or from not feeling up to par, the tasks seem more difficult and the problems harder to solve. Weariness makes it necessary to expend twice the energy while we get only half the result. Thus weariness creates a discouraging predicament.

Probably there isn't a person among us who has not, at some time or other, had the experience of discovering that the daily problems had grown too complex, the task too demanding. Later, after having had a chance to "rest up," it became apparent that it wasn't the responsibilities and the problems that had grown. It was only the energies that, slowly and quite unconsciously, had become depleted. Rested and refreshed the "old grind" seemed possible again. And very often it happens that we do not realize how tired we really are until the opportunity arrives to rest—and the whole wonderful process of mental and physical restoration begins.

Moments like these, which we are spending beside the sea on this historic sand, serve to revive our energies and restore our souls; and thus prepare us for an eventual facing of the responsibilities of life again. Which, after all, is the real purpose of a vacation.

Information Center Reports Much Activity

Woodstock, July 14—The Information Center sponsored by the Woodstock Business Association at the junction of Route 212 and Route 375 has been a busy place since it opened early in the summer.

The receptionists, Mrs. Gertrude Owen, assisted by Mrs. Ethel Adams, have been receiving many people and answering a wide variety of questions.

About 40 to 50 inquiries a day are made in person at the Center and about a similar number have been received by mail which are answered by Edgar Bauman, secretary who promptly sends them the Woodstock Business Association brochure "Invitation to Woodstock" and also furnishes the names to interested members for their particular type of merchandise or service.

Many telephone calls are received each day from people in Woodstock asking about events taking place in town that day.

The Association is planning a new brochure for next year, as well as many other projects which will bring Woodstock and its activities to the attention of the people of the entire county.

The new Woodstock Festival of Arts and Music Committees have also been publicizing the various musical and art events, and their programs for the week are distributed at the Information Center.

Members have started to place their advertising cards on the rear inside wall of the Information Center building where they are readily seen. There has been a thought projected that during the winter, when the Information Center is closed, that these display cards may be left on the wall, and spotlighted at night (and during the day) so that anyone entering the town and requiring information can find it there without the necessity of an attendant. This plan is still in the discussion stages.

Anyone and everyone is invited to call at the Center or to stop in at the center if information is required on any activity taking place in Woodstock.

Housewife . . .

standing was that the marketing order would ultimately lead to higher prices for consumers. That's why she opposed it.

THE TWO Ulster county farmers who recommended extension of the order were Stone Ridge producers, Daniel A. Barnhart, secretary-treasurer and former president of the Dairy-men's League, and Robert S. Kelder. The League favors a uniform price for farmers.

The hearings are being held on proposals to extend the standing New York milkshed milk marketing order to 22 additional upstate counties, and to establish a new order to cover 13 New Jersey counties and possibly six adjacent New York counties.

IT WOULD INCLUDE Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh.

Charles Relyea, president of the Kingston Area Milk Producers Association, had said in a previous hearing session that his organization, which includes 68 members, opposed extending the order. That it would increase prices for the farmer was "wishful thinking," he said.

Raymond Hammer, eastern district manager for the Dairy-men's League, during his testimony yesterday said that the league wants upstate markets to be included under the order so all producers will have a fair share of the fluid market and carry their share of the surplus burden associated with the market.

Mr. Hammer said that the independent dealer in the unregulated Kingston market regularly bought milk from the League's regulated Poughkeepsie plant to meet the fluctuating requirements of his local market.

HE SAID that the dealer purchased a total of 500 cans of milk between January 1 and June 1 of this year and has asked for a supply of from 700 to 900 cans a month for the months of July and August when summer trade increases demand. This price for this milk, said Mr. Hammer, is based on the New York Order 1-C price of 20 cents over the blend.

During the months when there is no "extra" fluid demand in the Kingston market, the surplus associated with the above mentioned 1-C milk is borne by the New York pool of producers.

Thus, it was pointed out, the New York Order producers receive less than the full 1-A fluid price for that portion of their milk sold in the Kingston area at full retail price, and at the same time handle all of the surplus associated with this fluid supply.

Mr. Hammer's testimony was in partial rebuttal of previous testimony by three members of the Kingston Milk Producers Association who said they opposed to the proposal to extend Order 27 to include presently unregulated upstate areas.

Mrs. Ball said she wanted to "speak up" for a large percentage of the housewives of the state.

HER VIEW was that: The people in Ulster, and many counties near and adjacent to Ulster county, will gain nothing whatever if a milk pricing offer similar to that of Metropolitan New York City were to be introduced to most of upstate New York. In fact, I have been told by reliable persons in the milk industry that there is every possibility of an increase in home-delivered milk if such a government regulation were introduced.

This I would not like. My family is in moderate circumstances. Like most middle class families today, we are feeling the squeeze of rising prices and fixed income.

I understand that farmers selling their milk to dealers in the Kingston market are satisfied with their present free enterprise methods of bargaining for prices.

Milk is one of the high items in our food budget but at present we are paying a fair and not excessive price.

UNDER THESE circumstances we do not need government regulation. In fact, the introduction of regulations that may be necessary for New York City could very easily increase our price of milk.

Dr. Blanford's report was that both the production of milk and the consumption of fluid milk in the marketing area—New York City and Nassau, Westchester and Suffolk Counties—set all-time records for June. The increase in each category was about four percent over last year.

Production for the month totaled 888,051,724 pounds, an increase of 33,438,682 pounds over the June, 1955, figure of 854,613,042 pounds. Production per day per dairy averaged 616 pounds and was the all-time high for any month since the Federal State milk marketing orders went into effect in September, 1938. It was the first time daily production had ever reached or exceeded the 600-pound mark.

However, there were 2,126 fewer dairymen supplying the New York pool for the month. Producers this year numbered 48,049 as compared with 50,175 a year ago.

The consumption of fluid milk in the marketing area was up 10,642,633 pounds.

Farm value of June's production, Dr. Blanford said, amounts to $31,732,850.56, an increase of $1,697,325.72 over last year's value of $30,055,524.84.

Rosendale

Mennonite Group Plan Fellowship Gathering

Rosendale, July 13—Following the flood in October of last year, a group of Mennonite men came voluntarily from Pennsylvania to help in the clean-up work necessary to put the village back in livable condition. In June, a smaller group of these men visited here, and were delighted to see the village in such fine of the Mennonite men.

A group, under the direction of Paul Clemens, has volunteered to come back and sponsor a "Fellowship Gathering" Tuesday evening. A male quartet will be featured as well as group singing.

The history of the organization of this group will be given. There will be no charge for admission. Prior to the program the group will enjoy dinner at Williams Lake under the auspices of the courtesy of Walter Williams.

All are welcome to attend the gathering.

Rosendale, July 14—All Saints Episcopal Church, Rosendale, the Rev. David W. Arnold, priest-in-charge, Richard Fenn, seminarist, will conduct services for the 7th Sunday after Trinity, 9 a. m. (parish hall) morning prayer and sermon, Hubert Smith, Thursday, 8 p. m. Women's Auxiliary at the parish hall.

Hungarians Seize

the plotters had decided to seek haven in West Germany.

YESTERDAY their chance came. All seven, including a young woman, bought tickets for Szombathely and boarded the big plane at Budapest.

"Before we boarded the plane," Jakaby said, "we received a tip a Communist secret police officer was among the passengers. When we were near the town of Győr, the lieutenant drew his gun and hit the man sitting beside him over his head."

Then, Jakaby continued, the plotters all drew their rods and charged passengers not belonging to their group in a determined attempt to knock out the secret police agent they did not know.

"It was a terrible fight," he said.

"THEN THE SECRET" policemen drew his pistol and wanted to fire at us. But the lieutenant knocked him down immediately with an iron rod.

While all this went on, the pilot who had apparently noticed what happened, flew loops, turning everything in the plane upside down. Most passengers were injured.

"But the lieutenant managed to break into the cockpit and forced the crew at gunpoint to withdraw to the passenger room and leave him at the controls of the plane.

and came to rest 300 feet from the road. The accident happened on the Samsonov road 3 miles from Route 209 at 3 a. m. The driver was not injured.

Probe Begins

rumbled across the area with blinding rain, hail and lightning.

However, air force public information officers said the rainfall was not heavy at the time the plane was given clearance. They said one-mile visibility and a 2,000-foot ceiling—500 feet in spots—prevailed.

Col. Williams said that at the time of the crash the plane normally would have been 500 to 700 feet high and traveling about 175 miles an hour.

Lt. Col. Horace W. Doty, an army physician, quoted airman Albert J. Buck as saying the ship hit an air pocket. Buck suffered a fractured ankle.

NO SOUND of the crash was heard at McGuire.

The first word of the disaster came from a passenger found by military police as he wandered down a road a mile from the crash. He was Pvt. Thomas F. Kiley of Lawrence, Mass., one of the injured.

Ft. Dix and McGuire then mobilized for the emergency.

Foot soldiers used axes, trenching tools and other gear to hack their way through the pine swamp to the scene, wading in knee deep water. Trees were felled to build a log road over the muck.

BULLDOZERS CLEARED a path for doctors, nurses and ambulances. The rescue teams included 48 military ambulances and a half a dozen manned by first aid squads from nearby communities.

Brig. Gen. Lloyd Moses, deputy Ft. Dix Commander, pitched in as a litter carrier.

"Before the bulldozers got there, it was sheer luck that some rescuers were able to reach the fallen craft," said one of the 250 members of the rescue party.

McGuire officials said 43 died aboard the plane and two others at Ft. Dix Hospital.

THE ONLY CREW member to survive was the flight engineer.

Lt. Col. Pedro M. Souza, an army doctor, said most of the victims still had their safety belts fastened and died in their seats of fractures instead of being hurled out by the impact. Only six were thrown clear.

The plane, known as a Douglas Liftmaster, was equipped with seats which face towards the rear. It was the first fatal accident the military air transport service (MAATS) has experienced in five years of operating that type craft.

FOUR CHAPLAINS of all faiths were kept busy during the night, phoning next of kin and sending telegrams.

Newsmen were not allowed to interview survivors at the base hospital here.

Military and local police kept out carloads of families with children trying to get into the crash area, detouring them around a four-mile-square sector.

THE MCGUIRE base was dedicated formally last Sept. 10 and described at the time as destined to become one of the world's greatest national airports. Some 55 million dollars worth of construction had gone into it.

A spokesman said four to five planes leave the base for Europe each day and traffic is "not congested."

Yesterday's crash was the first major air disaster within New Jersey in 4½ years.

During a three month period in 1951 and 1952, three commercial planes leaving Newark airport crashed at Elizabeth with a total of 119 lives lost.

Last month, a Venezuelan airliner went down in flames 32 miles at sea off Asbury Park with 74 dead.

Police to Check

pay anything, even if it means giving up everything they own."

But he added the parents felt it is no longer a question of money, that the kidnaper is too frightened to return the child.

THE KIDNAPER originally left a ransom note asking $2,000 on the rear patio of the Weinberger home, where the baby was stolen from his carriage. Later, the ransom demand was boosted to $5,000 in a telephone call the father was sure was from the kidnaper.

The Weinbergers have been tortured by a flood of calls from hoaxers. Several have been arrested.

Holman said "the situation couldn't be any worse. Every avenue we can think of has been exhausted."

IN WASHINGTON, meanwhile, a House judiciary subcommittee approved a bill yesterday to allow the FBI to enter kidnapping cases 24 hours, instead of seven days, after they occur.

Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R.-N.Y.) introduced the measure last year and pressed for action on it after the Weinberger kidnapping. He said he will ask that all procedure be expedited so the bill can be passed at this session of Congress.

Under present law, the FBI can enter a kidnapping case only after seven days have elapsed or when the victim has been carried across a state line. After seven days, the law presumes the kidnaper has crossed a state line.

Second Crash

Newburgh, and a rack truck of the Ruvio Lumber Company of Newburgh, driven by Kenneth Doughty, 23, of Newburgh, were proceeding south on 9W. The Puccio car was being operated north. The Consolidated Iron and Metal truck was struck in the rear by the lumber truck and the lumber truck entered the north bound lane and struck the Puccio car. Doughty will be arraigned later before Justice of the Peace P. A. Lyon.

Modena

Modena, July 14—Local taxpayers attended the annual meeting of Wallkill Central School District No. 1, including the towns of Newburgh and Montgomery in Orange county, and the towns of Plattkill, Shawangunk, Gardiner and Marlboro in Ulster county. A new district in Ardonia was added to those previously centralized.

Attention was called to needed improvements in the Modena School and the problem of transportation of children to a parochial school outside the districts mentioned. Edmund Cooper was reelected to a five year term on the school board.

Mrs. Robert Rognon left town Sunday by car on a trip to Chicago, Ill., where she was joined later by Mr. Rognon, who made the trip by plane. Mr. and Mrs. Rognon will direct and manage the 1956 National Convention and Trade Show of Locksmiths at the Sherman Hotel, Chicago, July 14-15-16.

This event is sponsored by the Associated Locksmiths of America, a national organization with members in 46 states. Mr. Rognon is convention director and Mrs. Rognon acting secretary-treasurer. The expected attendance is 3,000.

Mrs. Lester A. Wager Jr. and daughter, Judy Lynn, accompanied Mrs. Lester Mack, Mrs. Carolyn Raad and Mrs. Anthony Baranski of Wallkill to Poughkeepsie Thursday where they visited relatives.

Mrs. Charles Smith and infant son, Daryl Stephen, have arrived home from St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Edith Minard has sold her home, near Modena Cemetery to residents of St. Remy. They plan to take possession during the latter part of July.

An Artesian well has been drilled north of Modena in connection with planned improvements and additions to one of the houses on the property.

Mrs. S. L. Bernard and children, Sharon Lee and Donald of Poughkeepsie and Miss Glennie M. Wager of this place visited Mrs. Preston J. Patridge and daughter, Mrs. Charles Smith Wednesday.

Ira Merwin of Plattkill, director of Civil Defense in the town of Plattkill was in town Wednesday issuing information and calling attention to the public's participation in the Civil Defense Program slated for Friday at 4:10, when TV and radio will be cut off.

Considerable information has been received by the general chairman of the annual Stone House Day to be held Saturday, Aug. 4, at New Paltz from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

This year the Freer House, recently purchased by the Huguenot Historical Society, (also owners of the Col. Hasbrouck House on the Modena road) will be open as usual. Occupants of the house, Mr. and Mrs. John Vett have been most generous in making the house available for the public this year.

Those who have generously contributed to the fund being raised to purchase the property will have a chance to view the home of the Freer family.

The Elting family homestead erected in 1800 of stone and brick, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Heudgerd, is open for public inspection.

The Bevier-Elting House, built in 1694, now owned by five members of the Elting family who have formed a corporation to maintain the house and the summer residence of Mrs. Lanetta Elting DuBois, is one of the finest examples on the street.

Numerous displays of antiquity may be seen at the Memorial House, built in 1712. It is now the headquarters of the collection of items preserved by the Huguenot Historical Society. Architectural drawings of this outstanding structure sent to the Library of Congress, has recently arrived in New Paltz.

The Abraham Hasbrouck House, the Old Fort and the Lucas Van Wagenen house are also featured in the tour as will be a few houses outside of the village not to be made known to the public until Stone House Day. Special passes will be made on request. All inquiries concerning arrangements may be sent to Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, New Paltz Rd.

IKE'S HEALTH

The authoritative word on President Eisenhower's decision to stay in the 1956 race came in such a way as to indicate his clear intention to avoid making it a big thing.

Instead of a dramatic personal announcement like he made last February, five months after his heart attack, an indirect statement through Sen. William Knowland, GOP Senate minority leader, was the President's device this time.

This fits a pattern that has prevailed almost from the onset of his second illness: the official treatment of this period as one of normal convalescence from a major operation which led to no complications.

As part of this pattern, it should be noted that Mr. Eisenhower did not this time delay his decision until after he had tested himself vigorously with a reasonably full load of work and play. A month after his operation, he is still on a limited work schedule at Gettysburg.

Evidently the President has been convinced by his doctors and by his own feeling of well-being during the recovery interlude that no such testing and no exhaustive soul-searching is necessary on this occasion.

Some have felt that the doctors and certain members of the President's staff were treating his illness too casually in the convalescence period. They argued that his affliction—ileitis—was a grave matter that recurred more often than not and thus could mean future trouble.

Medical testimony made it plain there was disagreement on these points. And in any event it was noted, the severity of the illness, the degree of recovery and the prospects of recurrence are quite individual matters on which it is not wise to generalize—especially at a distance from the patient.

The President's decision to keep on running and to treat his current illness more or less routinely may well be questioned by some. But it will quite properly be tested at the polls this November.

The people will have to decide for themselves whether the President seems fit for the exacting duties of another White House term. They have four months to watch him in action.

All the evidences at hand thus far indicate not only the majority's approval of his stewardship but a popular willingness to accept his own judgments of his physical capacity to do the job.

There is no sign yet that any sizable segment of the voting public credits the image some would draw of Mr. Eisenhower as an "amiable tool" of self-serving politicians. The reactions suggest people think he has a mind and will of his own and is quite capable of exercising them independently of pressure.

Undoubtedly the fact of two serious illnesses in a man of 65 will influence more voters than would a single affliction. Yet there appears to be a strong disposition for people to believe that the risk in Mr. Eisenhower's case is very little if any greater than it would be with any other man his age.

STILL A GOOD CAUSE

Some of the best causes in the world are those that have been lost, or at least temporarily stymied. Among the latter is the crusade for shorter ballots to give the voter at least a reasonable chance of exercising intelligent choice.

Most voters are painfully familiar with ballots that carry a long list of contenders for offices ranging down to dog catcher. Instances of ballots with 30 or 40 names, sometimes as many as 70, are not uncommon. Under such circumstances, it is well nigh impossible for even the most conscientious voter to inform himself adequately and vote intelligently. For those less interested in exercising their democratic right, a long ballot is a temptation to stay away from the polls or vote in complete blindness.

All these arguments and many more were advanced with great fervor, some 40

TAXES AND MOBS

D. P. Mohle, of Houston, Texas, in commenting on a piece I wrote concerning taxes and mobs, asks:

"Who in his right mind believes that the mobs would cease their illegal activities and disband if the income tax laws were repealed?"

Fortunately, Mr. Mohle lives a sheltered life, away from what in modern gang parlance is called "the mob." This body of persons consists not of burglars and pickpockets and other small fry of the criminal world; it consists of men who deal in millions of dollars, whose business covers the world, who specialize in narcotics, gold smuggling, the legitimizing of untaxed dollars, in politics, domestic and international, in labor unions, particularly those which control communications and water fronts. Except for those who are hired as goons to do dirty jobs, most of the mob are well-dressed, conservative-looking persons, who live normal lives in the communities of their choice, who deal with banks, here and abroad, in large matters and many of them have an established status in the society in which they live.

As conditions in the world change, their affairs become different. At present, their principal business is to obtain one of the most valuable commodities in the world, the untaxed American dollar which is worth a great deal more than the taxed American dollar. To get hold of the untaxed American dollar, they engage in enterprises which cannot altogether be disclosed because otherwise they would be taxed. For instance, the great narcotic trade, which is now being controlled out of Italy and which pours the narcotic products of Red China and other countries into the United States, exchanges millions of untaxed dollars for the health-destroying drug. The mob finances this trade.

When the dollars are abroad, they have to be legitimized in some fashion and brought back to the United States for investment in ordinary, properly-taxed businesses. This can be done by the organization of corporations in about 17 countries and by keeping an anonymous, numbered account in a Swiss bank or in the banks of a few other countries.

The conversion of untaxed dollars, which are naturally illegally possessed, into legitimate dollars is so lucrative that men of good reputations in their communities often act as fronts for the money, serving as directors of corporations, etc. It is this particular situation that needs to be investigated by Congress.

The question that Mr. Mohle asked can be answered in this way: a combination of Prohibition and Tax Laws, together with the enormous treasuries of labor unions, attracted a new type of person to what used to be called the underworld, but is now nothing of the sort. It will be found, when the mobs are really investigated, that men will stop short of admitting ownership of a Swiss anonymous, numbered bank account almost as readily as a Communist employs the Fifth Amendment. Also, it will be found that the men who are using so-called Swiss or Liberian or Honduran facilities do not at all resemble George Raft in an underworld movie but are prominent business men with residences on Fifth and Park Avenues in New York and close connections in Washington, and it will be found that they or their lawyers or accountants have contributed to the campaign funds of both parties and to many charities and public institutions. And also it will be found that some whom we think of as American citizens are not American citizens at all, but hold such passports as the Portuguese and Swiss, although they were not born in Portugal or in Switzerland, which is no sin but is a point to be made in passing.

Air travel being what it is, the principals move around the world with terrific swiftness, commuting between the United States and Switzerland which is the center for such business. This is no reflection on Switzerland but the process of buying American businesses with untaxed American dollars needs explaining. European business men find nothing wrong with any of this because an American untaxed dollar is such a valuable commodity that a man would be a fool indeed who did not employ his initiative and ingenuity to possess as many of them as he could, to legitimize them to the best of his ability, and to invest them in American industries, such as those related to the national defense.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

A RETIREMENT COMMUNITY

I write often about the older person, the "senior citizen," as he may be called, for two reasons. One is that the percentage of our population who are sixty or over is becoming increasingly great and another is that the older person today encounters problems which were not so common a few decades ago.

Where formerly most households had a grandmother or grandfather present, today there does not seem to be enough room to accommodate the elder members of the family. In addition, the earlier retirement age being enforced in industry and business deprives many a capable older of his occupation, leaving him with several years to "put in" as best he can.

In an article in "Geriatrics," the magazine devoted to the disease and processes of aging, Dr. Gordon Aldridge states that many of the changes that come with age cause the older person to shift to a role with a less important function and lower social status. He is forced to see himself as unimportant or incompetent; his feelings of adequacy are diminished. The difficult and unsatisfactory role of older people has been linked to their social isolation, their lack of contact with others in the community. This isolation implies lack of opportunity or ability for participation in social events, usually considered necessary for social approval and personal satisfaction.

Accordingly, a study was made of the social aspects of aging in a small retirement community in central Florida. The idea was that in a community developed under the influence of older people, the role of the older person would be different from that in the ordinary community to the end of bringing social approval and personal satisfaction.

St. Cloud, Fla., a town of 3,000 persons, was selected for study because it was developed as a retirement community. More than 50 per cent of its population are over 60—four times the percentage found in the population of the United States. It was recognized that St. Cloud is not an ordinary community. However, the role of older people in St. Cloud may indicate the part that many older people will fill in years to come. If retirement age is made earlier, if older people have economic security, and if they choose to locate in favorable climates, similar communities may be developed in many sections of the south and elsewhere. St. Cloud may be the sample of retirement communities of the future.

St. Cloud's older population is made up mainly of retired people from northern states. They share some of the difficulties met by older people in our western society: loss or lessening of social relationships which had developed around their job, isolation from their sons and daughters, both of which were increased by moving to another state. On the other hand, they are located in a setting which includes many other people similarly situated. The financial status of St. Cloud's older people was not high but seemed to be fairly stable. Less than one-fourth stated that incomes were inadequate, although most were living on pensions of not more than $150 per month. On this, of course, there was no commercial entertainment other than a theatre and a poolroom.

Monday, we will go into a little more detail as to the daily living habits of this community of a "retirement" nature.

years ago, by advocates of shorter ballots. The crusade has dwindled to almost nothing, but the arguments are still valid.

"We Feel Wonderful"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—NEA — Wooden — not paper—dolls are the only souvenirs Air Force officers could find to bring home from their recent trip to Russia with Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan Twining.

And as far as his colleagues know, Twining came back empty-handed. Among others, Brig. Gen. William H. Blanchard picked up a couple of the little egg-shaped dolls each of which opens up and has two smaller dolls inside.

Seems there just wasn't much to be had in the way of souvenirs in Moscow. One member of the party picked a white shirt and found it cost $25. He settled for dolls, too.

EVER WONDER WHAT happened to that daring North Korean pilot who delivered a Russian MIG fighter plane to the U. S. forces in Korea three years ago and collected a $100,000 reward?

Well right now Noh Keun Suk is a beach boy at the summer colony in Rehoboth, Del. And he's the most popular figure among vacationing diplomats and government VIP's who converge at this resort.

Setting up umbrellas and beach chairs is strictly a summer job for the former flier who has just finished his first year at the University of Delaware.

People still question him about his feat of slipping a MIG out from under the noses of the Reds. But at this stage he's proudest of his near straight A school record and the fact that he made dean's list.

A MAJOR PART of Washington's social hilarity rocks Rehoboth when the hot weather hits town. And it proves you can't keep down the diplomats and cocktail circuit makers even at the beach.

Jack, chief bartender at the popular Henopen Hotel, reports that pourings are more numerous than ever. And he says Washington folk are swizzling vodka in huge quantities.

True-to-form gourmets can't forget the Embassy Row free-eating routine and they're flocking to the hotel's special Sunday buffet. It features all those nostalgic stomach fillers like fat hunks of roast beef, ham, turkey and melon balls.

OVER AT THE Russian embassy they don't go in much for long vacations. Most of the staff save all their time for a three-month leave at home in Russia. At least that's the reason they give.

It's a safe bet the Reds don't join the embassy crowd at Rehoboth. They're not allowed to go that far away due to travel restrictions. The confinements are set up by Uncle Sam for security purposes and to match the restrictions imposed on U. S. officials in Russia.

Again this year, however, the Soviet diplomats are going to their summer colony on the Chesapeake Bay where they rent more than a dozen cottages.

A lot of the women are weekend widows, for when the men come down on Saturday and Sunday they spend most of the time fishing.

SINCE THE INVENTION of chocolate no other dish has done so much diet damage as the rum pie served at the Capitol. Once a week it has become custom for everyone to have a go at this delicious calorie concentration on the menu at the Senate dining room.

Overweight senators throw away the diet book and plump secretaries survive on salads all week to make up for the figure-busting binge.

Chef Raymond Holland gives out the recipe except he's mum about how much rum. Depends upon your taste, is all he'll say.

BIGGEST CHATTER item at the beach over vodka martinis concerns Dr. L. R. W. Soutendijk, Netherlands embassy financial counselor, and his two baby rabbits.

He adopted the tiny animals and has to feed them with a medicine dropper every day to keep them alive. Conversation about world affairs is out as long as Soutendijk struggles with his rabbits.

What bothered him most were firecrackers set off by neighborhood kids around his cottage on July Fourth. The loud noise gave the bunnies the jitters.

"Now I know why they call America the arsenal of democracy," he cracked.

FASHION FRONT: Department of the Navy is still trying to decide whether enlisted men should wear zippers or buttons on their trousers.

A while back an order went out to all sailors to switch to pants with zippers as soon as the traditional 13-button jobs wore out.

But a poll of the fleet revealed that most of the men wanted to keep their buttons. So now the Navy's permanent Uniform Board at the Pentagon is taking another look.

Whether they say button up or buttons off, the final decision rests with Navy Secretary Charles Thomas who happens to be the most dapper dresser in town. He uses both zippers and buttons.

Eisenhower Given Poor Study of Dixon-Yates

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
Washington, July 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower—getting his information from aides—said too much too fast about the Dixon-Yates contract. He stuck his neck out, and now he's had it chopped off.

He had praised the contract repeatedly. Now his Justice Department says it was no good. He defended the role of banker Adolph Wenzell in this contract. Now the Justice Department says Wenzell's role makes the contract "null and void."

RIGHT IN ITS early days the Eisenhower administration faced a problem—and a choice—in the government's Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) which supplies a wide southern area with power. The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) needed a lot of that power. But what of the needs of TVA's regular users, particularly the City of Memphis, Tenn? The administration could have expanded TVA with new plants.

Instead, on the advice of the AEC and the Budget Bureau, it decided a private power firm should do the job by building a plant near the TVA area. Democrats protested, predicting this meant eventual wreckage of TVA.

IN NOVEMBER 1954 Eisenhower ordered a contract signed with a private utility group called Dixon-Yates. Then the Democrats began to dig into the role of Wenzell.

He was vice president of the First Boston Corp. of New York city, which became the Dixon-Yates financial agent, and had also been adviser to the Budget Bureau on TVA problems.

The Democrats raised a question: Was Wenzell serving conflicting interests—the government's and a private company's? The Democrats talked of "deceit and concealment" by the administration.

Eisenhower, still listening to his advisers, defended Wenzell at a news conference June 29, 1955. But the next day he ordered the whole problem restudied.

THE REASON GIVEN was that the City of Memphis, refusing to accept Dixon-Yates power, said it was going to build its own plant. At his July 6 news conference Eisenhower again backed Wenzell, calling his role in the contract "indeed" proper.

Then these things happened: July 7—A Senate judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), foreseeing the end of the contract, said it was invalid anyway and advised the government to hold up any cancellation fees which Dixon-Yates might claim in return for money spent preparing to build its plant.

July 8—Wenzell told Kefauver's subcommittee that while he was advising the Budget Bureau on TVA matters he met with AEC officials as a representative of his bank—which became the Dixon-Yates financial agent—while the contract was under consideration.

EISENHOWER canceled the contract July 11 on the grounds that, since Memphis was building its own plant, the Dixon-Yates plant wasn't needed.

Atty. Gen. Brownell said he looked for a "negotiated settlement" of the Dixon-Yates matter. And on July 12 Eisenhower called the canceled contract "good and fair."

THEN ON Nov. 23, 1955, the AEC said it would pay Dixon-Yates nothing for the money it had spent. The AEC said Wenzell had been mixed up in a conflict of interests in this contract.

Last Dec. 13 Dixon-Yates sued the government for $3,534,778 for its expenses. Yesterday's Brownell's Justice Department, defending the government against this suit in the Court of Claims, said the contract was one-sided in favor of Dixon-Yates and had other faults. But it asked the judge to dismiss the suit mainly because of Wenzell.

It said he had paid a triple role: He was advising and representing the government, his own bank and the Dixon-Yates group. That left Eisenhower high and dry on a rock.

Monroe Flies to London

London, July 14 (AP)—Actress Marilyn Monroe flew into London today with her hair disheveled and her eyes hidden by dark glasses. She was escorted off the plane which brought her from the United States by her husband, playwright Arthur Miller.

A crowd of about 100 reporters, photographers and television men watched the arrival, but there were not many representatives from the British general public. On hand to greet her were Sir Laurence Olivier and his wife, actress Vivien Leigh. Olivier will appear with Miss Monroe in the film "The Sleeping Prince" which will be made here.

The Budget-Minded Will Like This House

Rooms ..... Six
Bedrooms ..... Two
Closets ..... Eight
Cubage ..... 19,200 ft. (half cellar)
24,800 ft. (full cellar)
Dimensions ..... 52' x 26'

Budget-minded builders will cheer for "The Elkhart" because it can be built with a half cellar excavation, if desired. With a half cellar excavation, the cubage of the house is 19,200; with a full excavation the cubage is 24,800 feet.

The front door opens into a good-sized entry hall that contains a large coat closet at the further end. At the left, an open arch leads to the large living room, which is a meeting spot for the passageways leading to the rest of the rooms in this long house.

Living Room Has Fireplace

Measuring 21 feet by 13 feet 4 inches, the living room boasts a large fireplace in its right inside wall. The beautiful picture window in the front outside wall adds to the beauty of the room and, if the house is properly located, will provide you with a splendid view of the surrounding countryside.

In spite of the fact that the living room does serve as a meeting ground for the hallways from the various rooms, it still has a long section of unbroken wall space—a feature most important for attractive furniture arrangement.

Just beyond the fireplace, on the right, is a central hallway that connects with all the rooms in the right wing of the house. To the right, off the hallway and back to the fireplace, is a large storage area that would make a perfect place to keep an assortment of items not frequently used.

Just opposite this storage area is the den, which could be used as a bedroom, if a third sleeping room is required. Measuring 10 feet 6 inches by 7 feet, the den is very attractively situated for one window, in the side wall, looks out on the paved terrace while the other window, in the back wall, faces the back yard. The big clothes closet will come in handy if you decide to use this room as a bedroom.

Large Storage Area

Facing the hallway is the good-sized linen closet. There is another closet, located inside the bathroom door, just a few steps further down the hall. These three closets, actually take up a square area of wall space for two are located back to back while the third closet is placed with its back to side of the other two closets. Thus, within a small amount of space you have a large amount of storage space.

The bathroom itself is completely modern and contains both a tub and a shower. It has one small window that faces out on the back yard.

At the end of this central hallway is the back bedroom which is 11 feet 6 inches by 11 feet in dimensions. Two windows, one in the back wall and one in the side wall, provide plenty of light and good cross ventilation. This room also has a large clothes closet, which again is one of three closets making up a central storage area.

The front bedroom is located to the right off the hall and also has windows on adjoining walls. However, this bedroom is larger than the other one and measures 14 feet 6 inches by 11 feet. The closet, located in the center of the general closet area opens in this room. The third closet opens in the hall.

The left wing of the house contains the kitchen, the breakfast nook and the dining room. A short hallway connects the living room and dining room. The lavatory is located off this hallway just before the kitchen.

Measuring 11 feet by 8 feet 6 inches, the kitchen is completely modern and has an array of cupboards placed above and below the working counter arranged in U-style. The sink is located directly underneath the window in the center of the back wall; the stove is placed at the far left end of the working counter. This arrangement puts the stove near the refrigerator and makes the job of preparing meals that much easier.

There is a side door leading out into the back yard at the left of the stove. Thus you have direct access to the kitchen from the outside without going through the front of the house. Located as it is on the right front corner of the house, the dining room brings you the benefit of a two-way view. The big picture window in the front wall offers an excellent scenic background for the setting of your dining room table. The side windows bring more light into the room; provide cross ventilation during the summer months. The dining room measures 11 feet 4 inches by 10 feet.

Because so few families want to take the time or trouble to eat breakfast in the dining room, and today's modern kitchens have no space for the old family breakfast table, the breakfast nook is being included in more and more modern house plans. Located between the kit-

Bathtubs Fit Every Height

American plumbing suppliers need not measure you to find your correct bathtub size as was done recently in London by a British plumber.

The American plumbing industry makes white and colored bathtubs to fit almost any stature from midget to giant. Six different lengths of bathtubs are made, ranging in size from 38 inches to six feet. Another is 48 inches long and has a built-in seat and a diagonal bathing area. The average size tub falls in the five to five-and-a-half-foot classification.

The Plumbing Fixture Manufacturers Association explains that bathtubs vary in size to accommodate people of various heights and, at the same time, fit into small or large bathrooms.

Buffet Concealed In Paneled Wall Is Space-Saver

A concealed buffet, hidden in the wall of dining room or nook, saves space and puts silver, linen and china within reach of the table. The doors of the buffet should be made of identical matching panel boards to conform to the wall. Tray drawers give peek-in vision. Doors are held by touch latches, concealed perfectly in wall when closed.

How to Restore Brass Lamp Finish

When the finish on a brass lamp that has been lacquered becomes dull and marred, remove the remaining lacquer with denatured alcohol. Then wash the lamp with hot, soapy water, rinse and dry thoroughly. Finally, give it a new coat of lacquer, using only a transparent metal lacquer applied with either a high-quality paintbrush or a spray gun. A careful refinishing job will give any brass lamp the appearance of being brand new.

Replacing Saw Blades

When replacing blades in a hacksaw or coping saw, remember that the points should incline away from the handle. This allows all the cutting to be done on the down stroke with the power of your arm, and allows the lighter back stroke to clear debris from the cut.

Let Flooring Dry

Before you put down hardwood flooring or use similar type of kiln dried lumber, place it in the room where it is to be used for several days so that the wood can adjust to the humidity of the room. If you don't the bone dry wood will absorb some moisture and expand causing it to buckle.

Loose Electric Plug

If a plug fits too loosely in an electric outlet, bend the prongs outward to anchor it in place; if a plug is too tight, lubricate the prongs with graphite from a lead pencil.

chen and the dining room, this breakfast nook is lighted by a window in the side wall.

Plans Available

Complete plans and specifications "The Elkhart," or any other home in this series, can be obtained at moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents write to the Home Building Editor, 87 Weybosset street, Providence, R. I., and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a three cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply.

Hints Given For Using New Ironer

Getting a new ironer? Here are a few simple instructions to make your ironing even more enjoyable:

Be sure your chair is comfortable and the correct height. Put all clothes to be ironed near you so you can reach them easily.

Have sponge and water handy for moistening dried out pieces. Keep pins nearby for holding pleats in place.

Keep press cloth within easy reach if you are going to press woollens.

Bring a hanging rack up close to where you're working so you can put finished pieces on it.

Pliers Will Make Temporary Vise

For temporary and emergency use, a pliers can be adapted as a vise. To do so cut a narrow slot in the workbench or table and fit into it the handles of a pair of either wrench or lock-grip pliers.

The slot in the bench should be just wide enough to accommodate the handles of the pliers, should be long enough to stop the pliers at the jaw shoulders. Work can then be clamped into the pliers and the pliers can be dropped into the slot.

This will give excellent support for sawing, filing or drilling small parts and stock.

How to Apply Finish to Wood

If you're working with unfinished wood and are planning to apply so-called "natural finish" which reveals the grain to some degree, there are several ways you can go about it.

One way is to apply several thin coats of linseed oil and finish with wax.

Another is to apply a coat or two of shellac or varnish before waxing the surface. If you're using shellac, incidentally, be sure to thin it with alcohol in accordance with the directions on the label.

Sergeant Given Jail Term for Document Theft

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Right Play Needs Thought

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Practically nobody makes the right first play with the East cards in today's hand. The normal play is to put up the queen of hearts at the first trick, but this is the wrong play.

South lets you hold the first trick with the queen of hearts.

You continue with a low heart, and South wins a finesse with the jack.

Now South goes after the diamonds. If West wins the first diamond, he cannot lead another heart. If East wins the first diamond, he can continue the heart, but will never get back to cash them. South therefore makes his contract.

There is a different story to tell if East plays a low heart at the first trick. South must win with the ten.

Declarer must go after the diamonds, and West hops up at once with the king in order to lead his remaining heart. East plays the queen of hearts to force out the ace. The hearts are now established, and East still has the ace of diamonds as an entry. South can run eight tricks before continuing diamonds, but then he is finished.

The contract is defeated.

The correct play is far from obvious. When West leads the six of hearts at the first trick, obviously his highest card in the suit, East knows that South has the missing ace, jack, and ten.

With that knowledge, the correct play is marked to a thoughtful player.

Briefly Told

Malone, N. Y., July 14 (AP)—The Malone village board has ruled that water rates are based on the location of taps and not where the water goes after it leaves the taps.

Eldred McDonald, whose home straddles the village incorporation line, had asked for a ruling as to whether he should pay the $11 village rate or the $22 rural rate.

Even though he waters his lawn within the village line, his taps are outside the line and he'll have to pay the rural rate, the board decided.

Middleville, N. Y., July 14 (AP)—Robert Irving, 59, of Middleville, was killed yesterday when the rear wheels of a tractor he was using to move logs hit a stump, he was thrown off and the wheels went over his body.

State police said he was working on property he owned northeast of here in Herkimer county, near the hamlet of Norway.

Canastota, N. Y., July 14 (AP)—Howard Miers, about 28, a Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. lineman from Oneida, was killed last night when his automobile struck a tree near this village in the Syracuse area.

20 Guardsmen Hurt As Truck Leaves Road

Camp Drum, N. Y., July 14 (AP)

A truck carrying 20 national guardsmen skidded off a highway and plunged into the Indian river at nearby Philadelphia yesterday. All were hospitalized.

The army said the men, all from the Boston, Mass., area, were taken to the post hospital. About half suffered from exposure and the others received cuts and abrasions and were detained for observation.

Investigating officers said the truck, in a convoy enroute to a firing range at Antwerp, northwest of the camp, went over the lawn of a house before entering the river.

A practical nurse who lived nearby, Mrs. Louise Cragen, administered first aid at the river after other soldiers in the convoy pulled the men out.

Quake Is Recorded

Mexico City, July 14 (AP)—The government observatory last night reported a mild earthquake about 215 miles southwest of Mexico City. There were no reports of damage from the area.

Colonials Face Two Weekend Foes

Host Paterson Tonight, Meet Dutchmen Sunday

The Kingston Colonials face another full weekend of play in the New York-New Jersey Baseball League starting tonight at Dietz Stadium against the Paterson Generals. Game time is 8:30.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON at 2:30, the locals travel to Cantine Field in Saugerties to do battle with the Dutchmen. This will be the second meeting between the heated rivals, the Colonials winning the first encounter last Wednesday, 8-6.

Paterson comes to town with an impressive 6-2 record. The Jerseyites expect to start Walt Mulvey, former Journal-American all-star pitcher, against Kingston. Manager Fred Davi announced that he will counter with righthander Bruce Bechtold.

Catching Mulvey will be youthful Arnie Zimmerman. The 17-year-old receiver was voted all-state high school honors in New Jersey this past spring.

THE TWO GAMES are very important to the Colonials who are seeking to get into the thick of the flag fight. Kingston has won two games and dropped three and with a sweep of the weekend set could vault in the middle of the battle for first place.

The probable starting lineups:

Colonials	Generals

Schoonmaker, 3b	Link, rf
Carlinio, ss	Sondermeyer, lf
Gatti, rf	Monaco, 3b

Memphis Golfers In Publix Final

San Francisco, July 14 (AP)—Two natives of Memphis, Tenn., little Junie Buxbaum and big Bill Scarbrough, meet in a golfing featherweight vs. heavy-weight match in today's 36-hole finals of the National Public Links tournament.

Odds were prohibitive that two fellows born in the same city would reach the finals since 1,917 golfers started in sectional qualifying and 150 began the tournament over the par 36-72 Harding Park course here this week.

But those odds meant nothing as Buxbaum turned back Jimmy Wilbert of South San Francisco, 2 and 1, and Scarbrough overwhelmed San Francisco fireman Ovid Seyler, 6 and 5, in yesterday's semi-finals of this event for the nation's best public course players.

Adcock's Homers Lead Sweep Against Dodgers

By ED WILKS
(The Associated Press)

You think you have problems? Man, take a look at Brooklyn's World Champions trying to figure out what not to throw Joe Adcock. He not only hits Dodger pitchers like he owns them, it looks like he has 'em on strings.

The big guy from Coughatta, La., continued his gunning last night, parking a two-run homer and a grand-slam shot out of sight while driving in seven runs as the Milwaukee Braves reclaimed the National League lead with an 8-6 and 6-5 twin-night doubleheader sweep against the third place Dodgers.

The 28-year-old husky has wallowed 15 home runs this season and seven of them have come against the Dodgers—who also have been tagged for a quarter or so of his lifetime homers.

In the first three games of the four-game set at Milwaukee's County Stadium, Adcock has poked three home runs against the Dodgers. And each was instrumental in helping the Braves snap their home park jinx with a three-game winning streak that has given them a 6-3 record on the current home stand. The last time the Braves were home, they were 5-10 and lost first place.

They grabbed the gold ring again last night as the Philadelphia Phillies straight over Cincinnati, tumbling the Redlegs, to second 6-4. The St. Louis Cardinals rallied to beat the New York Giants 7-5 and the Chicago Cubs came from behind to knock Pittsburgh back to fifth 7-6.

IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE "race" Tom Sturdivant again beat Cleveland with a two-hitter (he did it June 16, too) while Bill Skowron drove in four runs with a single and home run in a 10-0 New York frolic that gave the Yankees an 8½ game lead—their best since 1953. It was their seventh straight success and sixth in a row over the Indians.

Chicago's White Sox lost their fifth straight, but stayed two points ahead of third place Tribe, in a 5-4 defeat at Boston. It was the Red Sox' fifth victory in a row and put them within two games of the Chicks and Injuns. Washington outlasted Detroit 12-11. Kansas City beat Baltimore 3-2.

The Braves, who now have a one-game edge over Cincy and front Brooklyn by 3½, smacked Don Newcombe for six runs in the first inning of the opener on six hits—including Adcock's two-run 14th homer. They blew that lead, however, and had to hustle back to break a tie against reliever Clem Labine on Billy Bruton's seventh-inning sacrifice fly. Ernie Johnson won in relief.

IN THE NIGHTCAP, the Dodgers scored four in the first off Lew Burdette. Adcock drove in a second-inning run with a single, then got off his grand-slam shot for a 5-4 edge. Jackie Robinson squared it with an eighth-inning homer; but the Braves got the clincher home against reliever Ken Lehman on Danny O'Connell's sacrifice fly in their eighth off Burdette's 10th victory.

The Yankees broke the game wide open with a five-run seventh against loser Early (10-5) Wynn. The only hits off Sturdivant were Preston Ward's fourth-inning single and Jim Hegan's ground-rule double in the fifth—after which the young right-hander, now 8-2, retired the last 14 men in order.

Lincoln Park, Cedar Rest and Legion Win Tilts

In some free-swinging action, Cedar Rest, Lincoln Park and the American Legion captured city softball contests.

The Rest and Lincoln Park hammered Colonial Cabinets by counts of 12-8 and 8-3 respectively, while Legion laced Hercules Products, 9-5.

JOE LEVERENZ and Nick Hahn homered for the Restmen to lead a 13-hit assault. The Cabinet nine also banged 13 blows including a circuit by Joe DeCicco. The contest was featured also by Joe Ausanio and Phil Tesoro's triples and two-baggers by Harry Van Wagenen, F. Ebelhieser, J. Savatgy and Tony La Rocca.

The Lincoln Park - Cabinet game was marked by injuries to D. Slater and J. Benincase of the losers and was halted after six innings. The pair collided going for a pop fly and suffered head and leg injuries, plus a cut above an eye.

RICH NAGELE and Duke Freer homered and doubled respectively for Lincoln Park. Harry Secreto tripled for the losers. Clay Stalter was the winning pitcher and Harry Secreto the loser.

The Legion rallied from an early deficit to win its contest, although out-hit 10 to 9. George Heddy of Hercules got the lone extra base hit, a double.

Johnson Leads Decathlon Tests

On Record Total

Crawfordsville, Ind., July 14 (AP)—Rafer Lewis Johnson, glittering with promise for a fifth U. S. Olympic Decathlon championship, today carried a record five-event point total into the last session of the National AAU and Olympic Tryout Decathlon at Wabash College.

The 20-year-old UCLA giant had 4,639 points mid-way in the meet, 98 more than his first-day collection when he set the current world standard at 7,993 points last year.

HE BEAT HIS record performance in the 1955 central California AAU meet in the shot put, high jump and 400-meter dash but missed his previous best in the 100-meter dash and broad jump.

The broad-shouldered 6 feet 2½ inch athlete from Kingsburg, Calif., already is a U. S. Olympic squad member as a broad jumper.

The 200-pounder put together his five-event total this way: He won the 100-meter dash in 10.6 seconds, with 1,080 points; won the broad jump at 23 feet 2½ inches, 808 points; took third in the shot put at 49 feet 8½ inches for 894 points, and shared with Aubrey Lewis of Notre Dame the best 400-meter dash time ever made in Decathlon competition.

Johnson and Lewis, Notre Dame halfback, plunging shoulder to shoulder in the same heat, were given identical times of 47.9 seconds, worth 1,025 points. The previous record in decathlon competition was 48.3 by J. W. Mashburn of Oklahoma A. & M. in 1955.

MILT CAMPBELL of the Navy squad, former Indiana University athlete who was runner-up to Bob Mathias in the 1952 Olympic Decathlon, was running second to Johnson at the halfway mark with 4,387 points.

The three top finishers today will join the U. S. Olympic squad. Bob Lawson, Los Angeles A. C., was third with 3,998 points.

Lewis, who was runner up in the 1954 Decathlon, was fourth with 3,987.

Zulueta Scores Upset Win Over Lightburn

Swaps Carries 133 Pounds in Hollywood Cup

Inglewood, Calif., July 14 (AP)—The heavily backed Swaps, faced a threatening field and something of a jinx today in the $100,000 added Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap.

This was the 17th running of the Gold Cup and only three times before had the high weight in the field won the guaranteed hundred grand.

The successful three were Seabiscuit, with 133 pounds aboard, in 1938; Challedon, 133, in 1940; and Noor, 130, in 1950.

Swaps carried 130 pounds to the post spotting the opposition from seven to 24 pounds.

The great Citation won the Hollywood Park attraction in 1951, and the $100,000 made him the first millionaire in the history of the sport. But Calumet's famous horse was not the high-weight that day. He carried only 120 pounds.

Today's mile and one quarter distance was the first at this route this year for Swaps. He won the Kentucky Derby last year at this distance in 2:01 4/5, and the Westerner, Hollywood's version of the derby, in 2:00 3/5.

D-D's Drive-In Giants and the Businessmen's Indians battled to a 7-7 tie in the Town of Ulster Little League yesterday before darkness halted play after seven innings.

The Giants sent the game into overtime with a run in the sixth after the lead had seen-sawed back and forth in the early part of the game.

John Smith started for the Giants and was derailed after two innings plus in favor of Ted Bream with the score knotted 3-all. Bream then had to give way to Dwan Caunitz in the extra inning to comply with LL pitching rules regarding overtime games.

Mike Miggins and Bill Palen hurled for the Tribe and were tagged for seven hits including doubles by Caunitz, John Hetsco and Don Funcheon. The Indians collected nine blows. Among them were two-baggers by Miggins and Gary Barnes.

Peter—The old home, av course, goes to the old woman. Terence, he gets the teams and the business; an' Patrick, he's a bright lad, he should have $5,000; and Ar-r-chie, bless his heart! he should have $3,000; and Dennis, me little darlint, he should have $1,000.

Lawyer—That's fine of you, Peter. (looking up from his notes) I understand about the home place and the business and the teams, but where is all this money coming from for the other boys?

Woman (slamming the door)—No! He knocked again and the woman again opened the door. Man—Now could I have a few words with George?

An American and a Dutchman were talking. American—What does your flag look like? Dutchman—It has 3 stripes—red, white and blue. We say they have a connection with our taxes: we get red when we talk about them, white when we get our tax bills, and pay 'til we're blue in the face.

American—That's just how it is.

is here only we see stars, too. Otto Keller, of Belleville, Ill., always smokes his cigar in a pipe—Roland Riffel, Jennings, Mo. Kindly Lady Uplifter—My good man, I hope that since you have come here you have had time for meditation and have decided to correct your faults. Prisoner—I have that, mum. Believe me, the next job I pull, this baby wears gloves.

We still wonder if any of us adequately appreciates the rest of us.

LONG-DELAYED FLING.

IN ITS NYMPH STAGE THE CICADA (OR 17-YEAR LOCUST) BURROWS A LITTLE TUNNEL INTO THE GROUND AND WAITS 13 TO 17 YEARS TO GROW INTO A WINGED ADULT.

WHEN THEIR LONG YEARS OF WAITING ARE UP, THE NYMPHS EMERGE, SHEET THEIR UNDERGROUND ARMOR AND FLY OFF AS ADULT CICADAS—FOR A FINAL FEW WEEKS OF SINGING, COURTING AND EGG-LAYING BEFORE DEATH.

 Shooting Editor

There aren't any hunting seasons open right now to speak of, save the "long season" on varmints that keeps so many of us shooting, but it's still a good time to be doing some forethinking about our own personal safety come fall and those frosty hunting mornings.

Take the new clothes you've been filling that piggy bank for. You and sufficient reason duck shooters as a group run into water accidents. They tip over boats, go through skinnies, get stuck in mud that grabs—and holds—like quicksand.

EVER STOP to think that if the new cold-weather gear you're saving for is insulated with down, or even with the new synthetics, it will keep you afloat for a considerable period of time? Acts just like a life-preserver, which is more than can be said for much cold-weather gear—and it's warmer into the bargain.

Armed Services Education Media Found Below Par

New York, July 14 (P)—The New York Times said today a study of the Armed Services Information and Education program has found it educationally substandard.
The newspaper said a report on a two-year study by the Fund for the Advancement of Education has been sent to Asst. Secretary of Defense Carter L. Burgess. The study was ordered by the department.

THE FUND, a division of the Ford Foundation, found that the 40-million-dollar-a-year program is not effective and does not give servicemen a clear philosophy of why they are in uniform.
Principal findings of the study:
1. Conduct of information programs is, in general, educationally substandard;
2. Some of the programs are harmful rather than constructive, especially in the way servicemen are indoctrinated against communism;
3. Overlapping and repetition result in waste of time, money and effort;
4. The 40 million dollars spent on the program each year does not produce commensurate results;
5. There is a definite lack of support for the program among the higher echelon staff of the armed forces.

THE REPORT recommends that more civilians be employed in the planning and production of materials used in the information programs and that their pay be high enough to attract experienced educators, teachers and writers.
The report was begun in 1953 and completed last fall. Fifty educators, industrialists and army officials took part in the study with Dr. Frank H. Bowles, director of the college entrance examination board in charge.

No Famine Seen In Potato Crop

Washington July 14 (P)—Don't worry about a possible potato famine.
Agriculture Department experts gave their advice today in commenting on published forecasts of shortages and possible black markets.

THERE HAS been a temporary decline in the movement of new crop potatoes to market in some areas because of acreage reductions for early summer varieties and because rains have interfered with harvesting.
The officials said there should be ample supplies soon. This prospect has been reflected, they said, in declines in wholesale prices in recent days from temporary high peaks reached last week.

THE EARLY summer crop is down 16 per cent from last year, but the department has forecast production of the late summer crop will be 7 per cent above that of a year ago. This crop may be a little later than normal in moving to market because some plantings were delayed by a late spring.

The fall crop, by far the largest of all the varieties, is being grown on a total acreage only 0.4 per cent below last year's acreage. Last year's fall crop was larger than consumers required. Surplus supplies were diverted to livestock feeds, starch and other by-products under a government subsidy program.
